5 Safety Secrets Every Teenage Driver Must Know That Only Parents Can Teach

A commercial pilot and former rescue squad medic empowers parents how to teach their child to avoid the 13 most common fatal driving mistakes using safety skills only a pilot can teach. A staggering 80% of fatal teenage driving accidents are attributed to decision error because teens are not properly taught how to assess risk and react under pressure. Five powerful cockpit decision making secrets, used by pilots during every flight, can reduce driving accidents and are transferable to all drivers – especially teenagers.

“Traffic accidents are the leading cause of death for teens and ironically these are kids fresh out of driver education. I’ve responded to the scene of numerous teenage driving accidents that were preventable if these kids had been equipped with some simple pilot skills” states John Loughry, a commercial pilot with over 25 years of experience, a leading authority on driving safety and author of the award winning book “Saving Our Teen Drivers; Using Aviation Skills on the Roadways”.

Parents are desperately seeking new methods to reduce these rookie driving mistakes. Today’s standard driver education leaves kids vulnerable to the same mistakes pilots know how to avoid. For an entertaining and informative interview on safety secrets every parent needs to teach their child, please call John at 330-524-2306.
